

What can I do to help?

Spread the Word

Register servicewomen past and present.

Sponsor registration drives in your community.

Challenge local organizations to see who can get more registrations or more donations.

Visit local military bases, retirement centers, VA Medical Centers, local cemeteries and hospitals searching for women veterans to register.

Post Flyers.

Search obituaries for women veterans to register.

Sponsor registrations for servicewomen who may not be able to afford the requested $25 donation.

Help youth organizations with membership and donation drives.

There are opportunities every day to raise awareness and spread the word about the Women's Memorial. What ideas can you come up with?

Public Awareness

Write "Letters to the Editor" about the Memorial, what it means to you and the need to register servicewomen past and present.

Generate story ideas for local media about the Memorial, history of women in the military and your part in it.

Use military women as speakers (i.e., students, community organizations).

Initiate events for your area teaching/telling about women in the military and roles they have played in defense of America.

Visit local schools, libraries, universities and civic organizations to talk about the Memorial, what it means to you and the need to register servicewomen past and present.

Remember military women when observing holidays (i.e., Women's History Month, Memorial Day, Veteran's Day)

Initiate trips to the Women's Memorial.

Support and recognize local servicewomen, women military leaders and women veterans.
